

Smoking Shelters at TOSHIBA

Problem Identified

Toshiba Information Systems (UK) Ltd located in Plymouth were aware that the introduction of smoking restrictions throughout their premises could lead to more people smoking in unauthorised locations such as fire exits, external doorways etc.

The associated problems of litter control and the increased risk of fire meant that a solution had to be found.

The Solution

Mr Neil Doe, Senior Manager, General Affairs at Toshiba, contacted Glasdon for advice on a suitable product for their requirements.

Glasdon Smoking Shelters proved to be the ideal solution. Toshiba were able to select two different sized shelters with the optimum layout for their site, and the choice of frame colours allowed for co-ordination with their factory.

As they were to be located against the external wall of the factory, Glasdon adapted the design of the shelters, effectively producing a three-sided layout that could be fixed to the wall.

Resulting Benefits

- Attractive, effective smoking control, with smoking confined to a designated area.
- Choice of sizes, layouts, roof styles & colours to complement surrounding architecture and corporate colour schemes.
- Cigarette disposal containers to eliminate the problem of litter.
- Delivered directly to the site as fully assembled, pre-finished structures, for minimal disruption during installation.
- Low maintenance as a result of the use of modern materials, ensuring a long life span.
